Is this course for me?

Gone are the days when we have to stick to boring, dry text books and wrap grammar and vocabulary in dull, meaningless topics.

By making the strange familiar and the familiar strange, we can capture the attention and imagination of our students and breathe new life into the learning of languages. Pupils like to see a purpose to learning and they want to feel they are doing something real and meaningful.

Delegates will be shown examples of a New Scheme of Work for Y7, written by three Regional Advisors for the New MFL Curriculum, which have proved to motivate and engage even the most disaffected pupil.

Course Director: Wendy Adeniji

Wendy has been a Regional Support Advisor for the New Secondary Curriculum since 2007 and co-ordinates the Yorkshire and North West Regions. She speaks regularly on innovative curriculum design for modern languages for the Links into Languages, the Association for Language Learning and is a regular speaker at national conferences.

Wendy is one of the co-authors of this new Scheme of Work, along with Juliet Park and Liz Black. She has worked as an author for Heinemann and BBC Education.

Course content:

- How to make language learning more meaningful
- How to link languages with other subjects across the curriculum
- How to ensure linguistic progression
- How to plan for Mixed Experience Y7 classes
- How this scheme links with the New KS3 Framework for MFL
- How ICT can be harnessed effectively to bring languages to life

You take away:

- A CD-ROM of sample activities
- A sequence of lessons for the beginning of Y7

Book early to avoid disappointment.
